We do this by improving the way you use people, processes and technologies. This means we address everything from IT recruitment and staffing to resource planning, business integration to compliance, process improvement to change management and technology strategy to systems integration and application development. We have the experience and the industry expertise to effect real, measurable and profitable outcomes for your business. In nutshell, we make things happen. Cavlogic Consulting Group has established three core business units designed to address the specific needs of our clients within particular areas of specialization. Our business units exist to manage the recruitment and development of people, intellectual capital and to provide best IT consulting services and enterprise solutions on engagements. CCG Resources - Specialist IT Recruitment

CCG Resources was established to provide the best Information Technology (IT) professional to meet today's technology challenges. CCG Resources specializes in integrating people issues with business strategy. We assist with workforce planning by providing talented qualified candidates to meet our client's contract and permanent requirements. CCG's IT recruitment unit primarily focuses on fulfilling IT staffing needs as well as providing quality IT consulting advice. Our point of difference is that our IT recruitment consultants have actually worked in various information technology roles. With an emphasis on understanding our clients' permanent recruitment or contract job requirements, we deliver permanent staff or contractors and consultants who are the best fit and best skilled for your business. CCG IT Consulting - Experienced Professional

CCG's IT Consulting division delivers specialist technical expertise when your business needs it most. CCG IT Consulting unit is a provider of technical services to various clients across a range of industries. We have experienced consultants, each a specialist in their field. This means we have the breadth and depth of experience to transform your business. Our Information Technology Consultancy approach is simple: we use industry standard technologies and tools. Our consultants have considerable intellectual capital and we adhere to industry best practices and follow a proven methodology for technology development on all engagements. CCG Enterprise Solutions & Technology Services

CCG Enterprise Solutions division provides a wide range of specialist IT consulting services to assist in the successful implementation and integration of large scale IT projects. We also provide complete support to our clients. CCG Enterprise Solutions is made up of business and technology professionals that provide design, implementation and support services, offering a low risk alternative for implementation and support services. Enterprise Solutions unit specializes in providing affordable IT consulting and Enterprise solutions to small and medium enterprises. We understand the limitations experienced by small and medium enterprises in supporting their IT infrastructure. As the IT environment becomes more difficult and complex everyday, it is very difficult for small and medium enterprises to support their IT infrastructure in-house, and at CCG we provide complete IT Solutions for these enterprises. We are proud of our talented team of account managers, recruiters, consultants and support staff. Our values are synonymous with outstanding service and delivering results, and a business philosophy based on key values, Performance, Commitment, and Trust. It guides our behavior and the decisions we make every day. Contact us today to discuss your IT needs and understanding how Cavlogic Consulting Group can provide savings and efficiency while maintaining the excellent IT consulting service that can become the backbone for any organization as it competes in the current technology-driven environment.
